MRS. EDWARDS GETS A RESPITE

NEGRO PARAMOUR, GREGSON, TO HAVE A REHEARSAL.

Pennsylvania Board of Pardons Continues the Cases of the Two Condemned Persons—Woman Gives Thanks to God—Negro Overjoyed at His Reprieve.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 15.—The Board of Pardons this morning continued the case of Mrs. Kate Edwards and granted a hearing to Samuel Gregson. Both were to be hanged at Reading tomorrow for the murder of the woman's husband. The death warrant was withdrawn immediately. In behalf of Gregson it was argued that the testimony upon which he was convicted was false and perjured, that Mrs. Edwards was told that if she would testify against him no opposition to her subsequent plea for a commutation of the death sentence would be made; that although he was innocent she did so testify against him; that Mrs. Kate Edwards has confessed that she swore falsely against Gregson and that he is innocent; that he did not have a fair trial nor a chance for his life.

The confession of Mrs. Edwards was submitted to the board by Attorney Daysher, Mr. Rohrer, who was District Attorney of Berks county when Gregson and Mrs. Edwards were convicted, asked that the man have a rehearing. Many petitions and letters asking for clemency for Mrs. Edwards were also presented to the board. After twenty minutes deliberation the board granted a commutation of the case of Mrs. Edwards and a rehearing in the case of Gregson.

READING, Pa., Feb. 15.—Kate Edwards at noon today, when she heard the workmen in the hallway taking down the double black gallows, said in Pennsylvania Dutch: "Let us hope they will keep it down." An hour before, when she had been told that the board had granted a commutation of her case for another month, she said to Warden Dettick: "Thank God! Mrs. Edwards speaks wholly in the Pennsylvania Dutch dialect. All of Tuesday night she tossed about on her cell cot, and could not sleep. After midnight she said to the death watch, Mrs. Kautner: "My last day on earth."

Then Mrs. Edwards asked Mrs. Kautner to tell her all about taking her little daughter Alma away. To all queries as to where the child had been taken, Mrs. Kautner could not reply, because she did not know. The condemned woman ate very little for breakfast, and soon after, not having slept all night, she fell asleep.

About 10:40 o'clock she was aroused from a daze on her cot by the warden. She heard that she had secured a reprieve and said: "Thank God." Then she staggered to her bed, sat down and wept. She spent the remainder of the day quietly and in the evening her lawyer called on her and advised her to husband all her strength, so as to be able to undergo a severe examination on the subject of her confession, that corroborated the negro paramour Gregson. That will be an ordeal which may either prove the truth of her confession or prove that she has lied, just to get Gregson a reprieve and a stepping stone to save the lives of both.

Gregson was listening to the reading of the 15th verse of the 17th chapter of St. John by a son of his pastor, Dr. Brown Miller, when the warden told him of the good news. The negro exclaimed that God had answered his prayers and said: "I forgive that woman, whose false testimony caused a death warrant to be read to me ten times. Yesterday, after her confession she sent word, asking my forgiveness. I sent back word that I forgive her everything." Mr. Brown Miller stopped the Bible reading, for Gregson was too happy to listen any further.

Sixth Front of Themselves.
The Detective Bureau pointed with pride yesterday morning to the fact that no complaint had been received that anybody had his pockets picked in the crowds along the President's route to Little Hungary Tuesday night. Detective Sergeant McCauley, who made the statement, said the sleuths picked up a dozen men in the crowds on that evening, most of whom are represented in the rogues' gallery. One, Charles Eames, alias Reeves is wanted in Chicago on a grand larceny charge.

Yellow Fever Patient Dies.
Frank Bill, the sailor who was removed from the steamer Orizaba last Friday suffering from yellow fever, died yesterday in Swinburne hospital. He was a Guman. His body will be cremated today.

TAUGHT TO STEAL, HE SAYS.

Little Howard Sheron Accuses Mother, Who Has a Bit in Prison.

Howard Sheron told Justice Wyatt in the Children's Court yesterday that he had been taught by his mother to assist her in shoplifting. He gave details of how the operations were carried on.

The boy said his mother sat at a counter with a satchel between her feet. He said that he then crept along and dropped into the satchel various things he took from the counters, unseen by the store people. He was remanded until Saturday to await the result of the trial of his mother. The mother, Mrs. Annie Sheron, of 922 Hamilton avenue, Brooklyn, became hysterical after she and the boy were arrested in a Sixth avenue store on Tuesday. She fell and hurt her jaw and the police sent her to St. Vincent's hospital, where she was taken to the Jefferson Market police court yesterday morning she fell in a fit and could not be taken before Magistrate Flammer. He sent her down into the prison to her cell.

"I didn't steal anything," cried Mrs. Sheron, feebly, as she sat in a chair supported by Mrs. Ferriss of the Salvation Army, the Magistrate standing before her.

Detective Kash repeated his story of the theft, and Magistrate Flammer held the prisoner for trial in $300 bail.

Mrs. Sheron is 31 years old. The boy when arrested said that he had had nothing to eat but a slice of dry bread since Monday morning.

HANGMAN'S ROPE PARTED.

Wife Murderer Hainsinger, With Neck Broken, Held in Air by Five Men.

BRIDGEPORT, N. J., Feb. 15.—The rope with which Frank Hainsinger, wife murderer, was hanged at the county jail here this morning broke just as he dropped through the trap, and he fell to the ground, showing evidences of life, when caused spectators to cry out and turn away their faces.

Some of the deputies of Sheriff Diamond and several spectators ran up on the platform of the gallows. Men from below who had taken hold of the rope passed it up to the men above. Five of them took it and hauled the murderer from his feet. He had made no sound in the impression was that his neck had been broken. The men on the scaffold held the body of the murderer in the air nearly ten minutes, when physicians pronounced life extinct.

Some of those who held the rope were nearly overcome when they realized that they had taken part in the execution. They were really holding up a man practically dead, as the physicians found that his neck had been broken by the fall.

Sheriff Diamond said he could not understand why the rope had broken. It was a new manila and had been tested with heavy weights.

Hainsinger shot his wife after a quarrel. He confessed. He met death calmly.

CARBOLED LOVE SICKNESS.

Hoboken Youth Got the Suicide Idea Strong, and Is Recovering in Hospital.

HARRY Soward, 19 years old, of 831 Willow avenue, Hoboken, attempted to kill himself in the waiting room of the Lackawanna railroad station yesterday morning by drinking carbolic acid. He took the poison in the presence of a number of passengers and rolled off a seat. He was sent to St. Mary's hospital, where it was said last night he had a good chance of pulling through.

A letter in his pocket was addressed to his "Darling Jennie, Tessie and Annie." He bade them farewell and said he was going to "Heaven" to meet his mother and father. He hoped they would take care of "my darling Anna, who lives at 80 Bloomfield street, on the top floor, north." He gave the names of a number of girls whom he had known, and said he loved them all, but loved Anna best.

Miss Anna Wintjen lives at 80 Bloomfield street, top floor, north. She told the police she went to the Lyric Theatre with Soward on Tuesday night. She said he was very love-sick and showed her a bottle of acid, which he threatened to take. She took the bottle away from him, but he bought another.

Cutler, U. S. N., commanding a crew of 251 men.

COLORED FOLKS PROSPERING.

ROSEATE PICTURE BY BISHOP SMITH, FROM THE BLACK BELT.

Since They Can't Vote for Whom They Like They Are Busy Getting Education and Wealth—Black Doctors, White Patients—One-Room Log Cabin Gone.

Bishop John Wesley Smith, one of the newly elected Bishops of the African M. E. Zion Church and formerly editor of the Star of Zion, is visiting Brooklyn as the guest of Dr. F. M. Jacobs, pastor of the Fleet Street A. M. E. Zion Church. The episcopal district over which the Bishop has supervision includes the States of Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas. He paints a glowing picture of negro prosperity in that section. He said:

"The colored people are securing homes and accumulating money. They are in business, mostly grocery and real estate in the towns and cities. A few are established in large enterprises. There is a thirst among them for knowledge, as seen in the sacrifice the parents are making to have their children educated. The public schools are supplemented by the parochial schools, for which the parents pay a monthly tax for each child who attends. They also tax themselves in order to have the school terms extended when they are short."

"More children are attending schools since disfranchisement than before. The people in this section are a clannish people, and the colored people are the support of the ministry. They have fine churches in the cities, but humble ones in the country section."

"The people in this States are also advancing morally. The one-room log cabin has become a thing of the past. This section, which is full of malaria, affords an excellent field for colored doctors. The negro doctors are doing well, and many of them have white patients. Cotton growing has become so great that the price of land has jumped away up. Land that at one time could be bought for a dollar an acre can't be bought now for a hundred dollars an acre."

"The people on the farms, but has to work in the fields to secure one."

"Since the negroes in these States can't vote for whom they want, they are not interested themselves in politics, but are accumulating wealth. They could not give President Roosevelt their votes, but they gave him their prayers. There is a gradual but steady migration of the colored people of this section toward the Indian Territory and Oklahoma, because of their agricultural advantages. All honest and industrious colored people are highly respected by the whites."

CARRIED 22 POUNDS OF CASH.

Weird Dress of Sailors' Apple Mary Is Her Savings Bank, Too.

The sailors' Apple Mary, arrayed in a skirt made of old sails and a shawl of coffee bagging, was gathered in by an Oak street station house cop, who found her begging, says, on Peek Slip yesterday. At the station house the matron found she was hawking with twenty-two pounds of cash in nickels, dimes, quarters and gold, aggregating $62, besides $8 in bills. There were 1,909 pennies and $3 in nickels. She also has a bank book showing a $200 deposit.

This is the only genuine Apple Mary, the police declare. Her real name is Mary Ward, and she was born in Ireland about 70 years ago. She came here when 25. Some years later she lost her invalid husband through accidentally giving him poison instead of medicine. A few years later her fourteen-year-old son was drowned while swimming off Market street pier, and his body was never recovered.

The woman became entirely unbalanced after this. The last left her school books on the pier, and policemen who were boys then tell how she would read them there by the hour and then look over the water as if seeking her boy's body. For years she carried his books to school every morning.

Then her means gave out and she took to begging. She carried the books. No one ever bought them, but many gave her money. She went aboard the ships from Corcoran Hook to the Battery and there are few sailors and longshoremen on the docks who haven't given her a nickel. Mary became her mania. Although arrested and sentenced to terms of thirty days to six months for vagrancy perhaps twenty times, she always became the sailors' Apple Mary again on being released. She lives at 27 Washington street.

The matron at the Oak street station said to her, "You love money, don't you, Mary?" "Few hates it," replied the old woman. In the Tombs court the old woman asked Magistrate Steinert to send her to the Island for the rest of the winter. She got two months.

PASTOR HAS QUITS CHURCH.

Newark Minister Resigns When Asked to Explain His Absence.

It was announced yesterday that the Rev. Frederick E. C. Haas, pastor of the Mulberry Street German Lutheran Church, Newark, had on the previous evening tendered his resignation to the board of trustees, and that it had been accepted. The trustees had summoned the pastor before them to explain why he left his family and the church without warning about two weeks ago. Mr. Haas has said that he had been worrying about his debts and that when he boarded a railroad train to go to New York to buy some catfishes he was so overcome by the rumble of the car wheels and that he never recovered full consciousness until he slipped on a pavement and sprained his wrist in Chicago. He then sought out a minister of his church located there, and the latter sent him back home.

The pastor's resignation has been accepted subject to the final approval of the congregation.

PICKLES THIRD ABDUCTED.

Phil Wissig Mourns Tammany Mascot—Political Trick, He Thinks.

Phil Wissig lost his pet bull pup, Pickles the Third, yesterday afternoon, by what he calls a Republican trick. Pickles the First was the original mascot of the Florio Sullivan Association of "de Ate." Shortly after the Hon. Florio succeeded Martin Engel as leader of the district, the dog, which had been taken to a couple of conventions, bedecked with the Sullivan colors, was run over and killed by a car in Grand street.

The dog lost one female pup, which was christened Pickles the Second. About four weeks ago Pickles the Second, who was taken to the last national convention by the delegation from "de Ate," gave birth to four pups. Wissig drowned three of them, and on the following day a wagon ran over Pickles the Second in front of the Republican headquarters in Grand and Forsyth street, killing her instantly.

A wake was held in Phil's saloon, and about 200 members of the Florio Sullivan Association attended it. The remains were placed in a wooden box and thrown overboard from a Grand street ferryboat, with Wissig, Charles Wagner and Stutch McCarty as pallbearers.

"I'll keep the third Pickles," said Wissig as he fondled the pup the following day, "and she will be the mascot for Tammany Hall in this district for next election. She is as white as the driven snow, and there is not a blemish on her."

A young man went into Wissig's saloon yesterday afternoon and gave him a note, which read:

Dear Phil: Let the bearer bring up to me Pickles the Third, our new mascot. I have a gold collar here for her, and I want to see if it fits. I will send her back safe and sound.

Wissig bundled the dog up, placed it in a basket and handed it over to the stranger. Some time later Wissig went to the Sullivan headquarters and to his consternation he found that the Hon. Florio was still in Springs. None of the Sullivanites knew anything about the dog, and at a late hour last night Wissig disconsolately gave up the search for it.

R. R. T. TO MAKE CHANGES.

Recommendations of State Commission to Be Followed as Much as Possible.

The recommendations of the State Railroad Commission, as announced yesterday, will be obeyed by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, as far as practicable and as speedily as possible. This was the answer of President Edwin W. Winter on behalf of the company when the report had been read by him.

"The commission has given us many valuable suggestions," he said, "and has at all times shown a disposition to be just and fair toward us. If the general public realized the difficulties with which we have to contend in solving Brooklyn's transit problems as well as the commission does I think we would receive more help and less abuse."

"Of course, I cannot give details as to what portion of these suggestions will be adopted. Our answer will be prepared and handed in within ten days. The changes will be made soon after and as quickly as possible."

ART IN BRASS BEDS

The designer of brass beds has ever been a slave to the few curves and squares into which brass can be bent, but our designers have now overcome this inartistic trade situation and draw our beds to match furniture in Periods and styles without consultation with our factory, thus making the artisan subservient to the artist instead of the artist being hampered by the artisan.

The patterns of brass beds which we use in Hotels, Institutions, are greatly reduced on account of the quantity which we have been compelled to carry during the autumn to fill our many orders. The few which we have left will now have to make way for the new arrivals.

NEW TIP FOR SCHOOL TEACHING.

Trade Instruction Needed, Dr. Atkinson
of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Says.

The public schools should give instruction in the trades, so President F. W. Atkinson of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute declared in an address at Cooper Union last evening on "Technical Education," under the auspices of the free lecture bureau of the Board of Education.

"Comparing 1803 with 1890," said Dr. Atkinson, "the total number of men in colleges and schools of technology had increased from 44,926 to 82,234 or about doubled, and the number of women had about trebled. Of the entire number more than 14,000 were in schools of technology. More than 30,000 students are enrolled in evening classes in the Y. M. C. A., several thousand at Cooper Union and hundreds of thousands in correspondence schools."

"These facts emphasize strongly the great need of similar courses as a part of the public school system. There has been a prejudice against trade instruction in our public schools because it emphasizes the utilitarian element in education, but we must revise our ideas of educational values."

Cottillon to Help St. Ignatius School.
